Depew was seen by a reporter last night, and asked what he thought of the Democratic tidal wave.

"It is the McKinley law," said Mr. Depew: "Not the legitimate results of the McKinley law, but the effects of its going into operation only thirty days before the election—effects which ought to have been foreseen. I am not surprised that we are to have a Democratic house of representatives. Some weeks ago I made up my mind that the Democrate would carry the lower house of congress, though I did not expect so great a majority as this. Fill tell you what made me think so. It was the way the McKinley bill was made use of all over the country. Prices have been going up, or going to go up, because of the McKinley bill was made use of all over the country. Republicans as well as Democrats—have made the McKinley bill an excuse for advancing their prices, or threatening to do so. The result is that people will not stand these higher prices, or are mad at it, and turned on the party that passed the bills. The farmers have been heard from. They come into the country towns to buy something, and are told by the storekeeper that the McKinley tariff is raising the price of everything, and they had better buy at once. It is needless to say that they don't like it.

"A great deal of the tidal wave of Democracy is the result of the disap-pointed office-seekers. Many of these en-erprising gentlemen had a knife up their sleeves, and yesterday they let the admin-istration feel it. "The Democratic victory in Pennsylvania," said Mr. Depew, "records a condemnation of machine politics. As to Massachusetts the cause of the Democratic victory is very different. Canton, O., Nov. 6.—Major McKinley said this afternoon to an Associated Press reporter that, while conceding his prob-able defeat by a small majority, he is greatly satisfied with the result. He said the issue was between a protective tariff and a tariff for revenue only, clear and distinct, and nothing else cutered into the convass. His full was the center of assent. The result be regarded as a signal victory. A Democratic majority 2,500 in this district last year was reduced 2,500 in this district last year was reduced 2,500 in this district last year. He carried his own to about 200 this year. He carried his own ward and the city and county by large ma-jorities, showing unprecedented gains.

NEBRASKA RETURNS.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 6.—An evening paper gives the following figures up to 3 p. m. today. Out of sixty counties the votes for governor stands as follows: Boyd, (Democrat) 59,786. Richards, (Republican) 49,151, Powers, (Alliance) 50,352. This leaves twenty-nine counties. Estimating the counties not folly counted would make Boyd's plurality about 5,508. Returns give Bryan, Democratic candidate, majority for First congressional of 6,500 over Connell, Republican. McKeighan, Democrat and Alliance candidate in Second district, so far as the vote is received by counties, has a majority over Harian, Republican, of 7,790. The Third district returns show so far as completed by counties Thompsons, Democrat, 13 664. Dorsey, Republican, 18,192; Heim, 23,033, giving Heim, Alliance candidate, plurality of 4,491. Mr. Stanley was overjoyed to meet his friends, and especially Col. Anderson. Col. Anderson, in a brief speech, welcomed Mr. Stanley to America. In reply Mr. Stanley said:

"Col. Anderson, I thank you from my heart for your kind welcome to my home This is far different time from the one, twenty-three years ago, when I sailed away from the harbor of New York to report to you in London. I am delighted to return or the third time for a visit to a land and ecople to whose influence and hospitality am indebted. Although I have been ab-ent so long, I am a citizen of the United states, you know, and I am glad to feel that I am a citizen of this country. But I must go and come whenever and wherever duty calls me. Here I am again, back from the gloom of a country that was unknown to the one that is the light of the world?"

I do not wish to say much about it yet,

Yambpuya and after Barttlet's murder, Bennty had written a report to the comtee, as he, in common with others, had thought that I was deed. So when I asked him if he had any information of what had taken place, he said: I have a letter which I was just about sending to the committee.' I said: I am here and as your superior officer of the expedition, I nave the authority to open it. After reading it, I asked him to address to me as chief of the expedition instead of the committee, and it was in this way that I prevented the report of his going to England. I have that letter. It explained very clearly what had happened. It was all written before I arrived. Therefore, I have Bonny's report, Troop's two letters, Ward's account which I have received, and more important than all. I have the log ambpuya and after Barttlet's murder, more important than all, I have the log book signed by the officers day after day. Without any other evidence, that log book of itself would prove that I was justified of itself would prove that I was justified in my censure of the rear column, which was very wild. In my letter to the committee. When am I going to publish that log? I cannot say. I think it better to wait awhile or until I have read Troup's book. Mr. Bonny could relieve this criticism by telling what he knows and writing a plain, simple story of what took place; how it was that Maj Barttlelot was killed, how it was that Maj Barttlelot was killed, how it was that this rear column, so grandly equipped before starting, fell to rot. He told us all the same story and told it to Emin Pasha, and we have heard it, but I have also written the story recorded it to Emin Pasha, and we have heard it, but I have also written the story recorded at the time. The log book was written every day like a ship's log, stating what had occurred from day to day. It is signed officially by K. M. Barttelot, James S. Jameson and Mr. Bonny, who was the officer of the day. The log book is very valuable and with the official reports in my possession will fully justify me in my censure of the rear column and acquit me of the charge that I have acted otherwise than as an honorable man and officer."

He threatened him with reporting his denial and again demanded the men and then had complained to Bonny. Bonny told him he had enough men already and that if he put the fifteen loads of rifles in their hands, they could go ahead and protect themselves. That was July 17. He went to the Arab chief and beat him with a cypress stick and left him in a horrible condition. Early on the morning of the 19th, Barttelot was awakened and disturbed by loud crying and beating of drums. He sent Barttelot was awakened and disturbed by loud crying and beating of drums. "Were the stories about the natives being generally treated cruelly true?"
The log books in camp, signed by Barttellot, Jamison, Bonny and Ward, were simply one long account of remorseless flogging and inhumanity. One man had an uicer seven inches in diameter which was full of maggots, caused by a severe besting. Barttellot even kicked his little boy, Saulto, whom he himself, said was an intresting, quaint little boy, and from the injuries he died. One man took a piece of raw meat because he was nearly crazed with hunger and ate it. For this he was ordered to receive 300 lashes. The doctor told Barttellot that if it was not stopped it would kill him. As soon as the man it would kill bim. As soon as the man was released he ran away in the bushes, but was captured and shot by Harttelot's

The crime of which Baldwin was convicted was the murder of his sister. His father, who was nearly a millionaire, died and left his fortune to his widow, son and daughter. Young Baldwin was dissat-isfied with his share of the estate. A short time afterwards his sis-ter died from the effects of chloroform, under suspicious circum-stances. Her brother was arrested, charged must go and come whenever and wherever duty calls me. Here I am again, back from the gloom of a country that was unknown to the one that is the light of the world."

House bill No. 28, to exempt property

om sale was considered. Fighty acres as a homestead, not to ex-red $3,000 in value, is exempt from mortceed $3,000 in value, is exempt from mort-gage or execution.

Nothing, either personal or real, is ex-empt from attachment for wages, except pensions. No chattle mortgages are valid on property not exempt where fraud can be shown. The city homestead cannot be mortgagest. Household goods are chattely all implements of industry, tools, appa-ratus, books, necessary for any trade of profession family library, portraits, two cows and caives, two horses or mules, two yoke of work oxen, yoke and chains, one carriage, gun, and saddles, provisious and forage, all current wages for personal ser-vices.

There is a greater amount exempt than in Kansas. A new feature is that it can not be mortgaged.

The house consented to the Democrats using the half for a joilification tonight.

NOTEL Mr. Daniels was misquoted yesterday. He said, speaking on the exemption bill: "I am in favor of a liberal exemption from mortgage." He did not say "I am in favor of a general exemption."
